Broadside to Be Fired at Democrats as State Convention Opens This Afternoon With Fess' Address; Others Talk Tonight

COLUMBUS, July 14.—Oratorical guns will be fired at the political enemy by G. O. P. leaders at the Republican state convention which opens here this afternoon.

U. S. Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio; Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Washington, D. C., and possibly, Postmaster General Walter J. Brown, Republican national committee from the Buckeye state will "fire back" at the Democrats in defense of the Hoover administration.

Author of State Prohibition Law For Modification

C. C. Crabbe Says 12 Years of Experimenting Have Proven Failure.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

COLUMBUS, July 14.—The time has come for Ohio to modify the Crabbe Act, the drastic state prohibition law enacted in 1922.

By all means the question is one for important consideration by the members of the Republican state convention meeting here today.

In my opinion there is no question but that public sentiment is strongly in favor of radical modification of the state law.

REFEAL INEVITABLE

There is an overwhelming desire through the nation that the 18th amendment also be repealed. A repeal is inevitable. Until such time as the amendment is repealed, however, there should be a modification, both in the Volstead Act and the Crabbe Act, that will at least in a measure satisfy the demands of the people.

The return of beer has been suggested to me that sentiment demands legalizing the manufacture and sale of beer under proper restrictions.

STATE ACT NEEDED

To change the situation in Ohio, separate action is necessary. It should be borne in mind that even though Congress changes the Volstead act, the situation would not be altered in Ohio unless the state prohibition code is amended.

Personally, I am willing to join party leaders and the convention in their decision about this question. As a Republican I admit that the state convention should follow very closely the national platform, which calls for resubmission. I repeat, however, that there is no question but that the Crabbe act eventually must be erased after these 12 years of experimenting.

Entrance was gained by breaking a lock on the coop.

It is thought the thieves had a truck nearby and hauled away the chickens.

Nearly all of the chicks were "spring fry".

RELIEF BILL NEAR HOOVER

House Approves It But Delays Threaten To Hold Measure In Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Despite disheartening delays, leaders in the fight for jobless relief legislation today were confident of sending the $2,122,000,000 measure to the White House by Friday night.

The measure was before Senate and house conferees today with a speedy agreement predicted. Senate action was to be sought during the day but House leaders said the measure must lay over until Friday in that body.

REPRISALS HEARD

Illness, red tape and threatened reprisals combined to dissipate the hope of having the bill enacted last night.

After the House passed the measure revised to meet President Hoover's objections, with one major exception, the Senate was delayed in sending the measure to conference. Illness of Sen. Norbeck (R) of South Dakota caused postponement of the meeting.

The three major questions of difference were the House section requiring publicity for future loans of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Glass amendment permitting direct loans to private industry by federal reserve banks and the administration proposal to reorganize the finance corporation board of directors.

21 CARS OF C. & O. TRAIN OFF TRACKS

Axe Breaks on Loaded Coal Car Causing Derailment Near Scippo Creek

NO ONE INJURED

Information Concerning Wreck is Vague

Traffic on the westbound track was disrupted and damage was thought to be considerably large when 21 loaded coal cars on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad left the rails at about 5:30 a. m. Thursday at a point near Scippo creek, four miles south of this city.

No one was reported injured.

Details concerning the accident are decidedly vague because the railroad company maintains offices neither here nor in Chillicothe and no one knew anything concerning the derailment could be found. The section of the road on which the accident occurred is on the northern division with headquarters in Covington, Ky., and even the company's office in Columbus was not certain of details.

AXLE BREAKS

It is thought, however, that a journal-axle on one of the loaded cars broke causing the accident. The rails at the scene were damaged and must be repaired before traffic on the west bound track can be resumed. The Columbus office has sent its wrecking outfit to assist in returning the derailed cars to the track. Additional aid was to be sent from the southern part of the state.

A colored train rider, who said that he was riding on one of the wrecked cars, escaped uninjured when he jumped from the car when he heard a crash.

Approximately 60 workmen were sent to the scene to begin clearing the tracks. It is expected 24 hours or more will be needed before all tracks will be cleared.

The cars are piled in a heap, one on the other, for a distance of approximately 200 feet. Much of the coal was dumped in fields on either side of the track.

The tracks are situated on land purchased from H. M. Crites.

Fear Many Dead In French Flood

NICE, France, July 14.—Trapped by a sudden flood in the dry bed of the river Paillon today, many men, women and children were swept to their death.

According to police, 40 to 50 persons were drowned.

MANY FEARED DEAD

The bed of the river Paillon, which traverses Nice, has long been dry and the city authorities recently roofed it over, using the roof as a roadway.

Since that time scores of unemployed and tramps, including many entire families have made a practice of sleeping in the space underneath the roadway.

Early today a storm in the mountains about Nice sent water rushing in a 15-foot wall down the riverbed, overwhelming men, women and children as they slept. Only two women were rescued.

L. Buchanan, superintendent of county schools. This report does not cover the record of the city's schools.

Over one-third of the total enrollment includes boys in elementary schools. There are 1,769 boys and 1,601 girls in the 20 elementary schools of the county. In the 13 high schools there are 449 boys and 471 girls, the report states.

TRUSTY PRIVILEGES AT PRISON EXPECTED TO RESULT IN MEET

COLUMBUS, July 14.—Curtailment of the practice of granting trusty privileges to prisoners soon may have been given their number at Ohio Penitentiary is expected to be recommended soon by the state senate welfare investigating committee.

The old question—"How many days and nights must a man spend behind the bars to be sufficiently punished for a major crime?"—will be revived by the committee when it makes its report of a long investigation, according to information received by Warden Preston E. Thomas.

Committee members, the warden learned from one of them, believe that a convict should not be permitted to venture beyond the prison walls for several months after he has been imprisoned.

WARDEN OPPOSED

The warden, however, is vigorously opposed to that theory of the treatment of prisoners, as is Prentice W. Reeves, former Ohio Wesleyan university psychology professor who is a member of the state parole board.

Thomas and Reeves believe that a high-typed personality can receive its most punishment in one or two nights behind the walls.

The humiliation of being sent to the "big house," especially if the convicted man has led an apparently blameless life up to the time of the crime, is never greater than the moment the prisoner is assigned to his cell, they firmly contend.

Thomas has often granted trusty privileges to prisoners only a short time after they entered the penitentiary.

BOWED WITH SHAME

"The average man who comes to the prison for the first time is bowed down with shame the minute he gets into his penitentiary uniform and no addition of days and weeks inside can increase his actual punishment after that moment," the warden thinks.

"Life isn't easy, although a prisoner is a trusty," Thomas believes. "We put bankers, bond salesmen and former officials at work outside, hoeing beans and cutting grass, and yet this is considered too hasty by some."

In the 17 years he has been warden, Thomas has come in contact with thousands of heartaches at the prison, and now attempts to use occasional leniencies where he believes he can restore the correct mental attitude of the prisoner.

Although he has permitted more than 1,000 prisoners to go to funerals of relatives, many times unguarded, not one has failed to return.

The senate committee's report is to be made to the state legislature after a probe lasting many months during which the administration of Ohio Penitentiary was carefully studied. Senator Roy J. Gillen (R) of Wellston is chairman of the committee.

GOVERNOR'S SON 'GREASE MONKEY'

CLEVELAND, July 15.—Robert White, 19-year-old son of Governor George White of Ohio, is a "grease monkey" at the Ohio National Guard hangar at Cleveland airport, learning to fly from the ground up.

Taking time off from his work to answer an interviewer's questions when he was found overhauling a plane, young White revealed his desire to learn to be an aviator, first by learning the mechanics of airplanes and then by learning to fly.

The governor's son was working with half a dozen enlisted men of the O. N. G. shifting a long table used for packing parachutes to another part of the hangar. A short time later, he was assigned to clean around the engine of one of the 112th Observation Squadron's orange-colored scout ships.

On July 17, White expects to accompany the squadron to Camp Perry for a two-week summer training session. He wasn't exactly sure of his status with the squadron and officers in charge referred questions to Major E. H. Zistel, squadron commander.

White's father was the first gubernatorial candidate ever to use an airplane during a campaign in Ohio.

RECIPES

SUMMER TABLE SPECIALS

Out of a clear blue summer sky come these delightful summer dishes that one can call "different."

CHERRY SNOW

2 Tablespoons gelatin.
4 Tablespoons cold water.
1 Cup sugar.
2 Cups boiling water.
Juice of two lemons.
1-4 Cups fresh pitted cherries cut in pieces.

Soak the gelatin in cold water until soft, then dissolve with the sugar in the boiling water. Add the lemon juice, cool until fairly well set, then heat until fairly thick with a rotary beater until fairly thick. Stir or fold in the cherries cut in halves. Cool in one large, or six individual molds. If there is any appreciable amount of juice left over after cherries are pitted and halved, substitute it for part of the boiling water. This will serve six or eight people.

DAISY SALAD

16 Large strawberries or blackberries.

1-2 three-ounce package cream cheese.
2 Tablespoons thin cream.
2 Brazil nuts.
Hull strawberries and cut in half. If blackberries are used, leave them whole. Add cream to cheese and mix well. Roll each berry half way in cheese and arrange eight halves in a circle on a lettuce leaf, having smaller end of berry toward the center. Cut the Brazil nuts in half crosswise. Put one-half of a nut in the center of the circle of berries. This will serve four. This may be served with boiled dressing thinned with cream.

Salad for a main supper dish should be substantial. There could be no better choice for a salad for the party menu, than the following:

TOMATO LOAF SALAD

3 Cups strained cooked tomatoes.
1 Small onion, grated.
1-2 Teaspoon sugar.
Salt and pepper.
2 Tablespoons gelatin.
1-2 Cup water.

1 Cup chopped boiled ham.
1 Teaspoon prepared mustard.
Salad dressing.

1 Cup cream cheese.
2 Tablespoons sour cream.
1-2 Teaspoon salt.

Simmer tomatoes, onions and sugar for five minutes, and add salt and pepper to season highly. Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes and dissolve in the hot tomatoes. Divide into three equal parts. While cooling, grind the ham and mix with the mustard and enough salad dressing to moisten well. Beat cream cheese with the sour cream and salt.

Grease with salad oil very sparingly, a loaf shaped mold and wipe it out with a paper napkin to remove any excess oil. Put mold in a pan of chopped ice. Pour one part of the tomato mixture into mold and let it set. Then spread the ham over it and add the second part of the tomato. Let set again and then carefully spread with the cream cheese. Add the rest of the tomato and put into the ice box until ready to serve.

To unmold loosen the edges with a knife, dip into hot water, re-platter over mold and quickly invert. Garnish with hearts of lettuce, stuffed olives and strips of pimento. Serve with mayonnaise. This quantity will make six portions.

BOYS' CAMP NEWS

The following is a report of this week's activities at Camp Mt. Oval, written by Billy Bennett Hefner.

"On Monday, we went for an all day hike. We went swimming and explored down the creek. We took our dinners and started at 10:30 a. m. and got back to camp at five o'clock. Dr. Lilly came out with his telescope after which we went to bed.

"Tuesday morning, we learned scout signaling. After dinner, some new boys enrolled, Frank Barnhill, Jr., Edward Ebert, Jr., and David Yates. We rode in the afternoon.

"Wednesday morning officers were elected. Frank Barnhill, Jr., is sheriff, Jack Lilly, deputy sheriff, Elmer Hays, Judge; David Hilliard, patrol leader of the Sycamore; and Edward Ebert Jr., patrol leader of the Elms. We then went for a hike to the threshing machine and wheat fields. After dinner we prepared our exhibits for the visitors. We had 35 visitors and a new boy, Billy Wright from Kingston. We played baseball and croquet in the afternoon and in the evening, we looked through Dr. Lilly's telescope."

At the Circleville Theatres

AT THE GRAND
Joan Bennett wears many interesting costumes in "Careless Lady," now current on the screen at the Grand Theatre. Although smart in design, they can easily be copied by the home dressmaker.

For instance, there's a jacket costume representative of the outstanding types of daytime wear. It is of rough crepe in beige shade. The jacket looks as though it might be a part of the dress and fits snugly around the waistline.

Then there is a lace formal gown that gains additional interest because of the type of lace—a heavy quality taking on the texture of the old-fashioned crocheted effects. A black satin and silver lace dinner costume, trimmed with black fox fur, is a stunning thing. The skirt is pleated ed satin, the bodice is form-fitting, made of the lace and reached to the hip line. Over this a cape of the silver lace, edged with the fur, and reaching to a point just above the elbows.

TRADE ACCEPTANCE PLAN IS ADVOCATED

CLEVELAND, July 14.—Urging the general adoption of the trade acceptance plan in buying and selling by business houses of the nation, the industrial and banking committee of the Fourth Federal Reserve bank today launched its campaign to re-establish credit conditions in the district.

With a declaration that the trade acceptance plan would be a "great stimulus to business," and "halt decline in prices," the committee stated its adoption would provide a "ready means" for opening the great credit facilities of Federal Reserve banks.

The prediction was made in the first formal statement issued by the committee headed by H. L. Williams of Cleveland, which was appointed several weeks ago by E. R. Fancher, governor of the Federal Reserve bank here.

ALL GIVEN COPIES
Industrial concerns and banks throughout the Fourth District today were being sent copies of the statement, which was prepared after a lengthy study of credit conditions.

The acceptance plan, which is an arrangement for obtaining bank loans for bills of exchange, is now popular in Europe and was used in the United States until after the Civil War. Some larger concerns in the United States already have adopted the plan.

Banks which discount trade acceptances can rediscount them with the Federal Reserve banks and thus maintain a status of liquidity, according to the committee.

"The decline in prices will be stopped and an improvement in prices and business will result if properly safeguarded credit can be extended in business," the statement said.

"Purchase of government bonds by the Federal Reserve banks is making credit available in the banks of the nation. The banking institutions would pass on the credit to industry and commerce, if in doing so, they could be assured of the liquidity they now enjoy."

The committee declared the plan it proposed would guarantee the liquidity of the banks as well as furnish business necessary credit.

BILL OF EXCHANGE
A trade acceptance, the committee pointed out, is a bill of exchange signed by the buyer of goods and indorsed by the seller. The seller takes the paper to a bank and is loaned money on it. The purchase price of the goods, plus the cost of labor in effecting their installation, may be included in the amount of money for which the acceptance is drawn.

Billygoat Remains Billygoat Despite Magic of Scientists

Spirits of Darkness, Invoked on Mountain Top by British and German Psychic Experts, Fail to Metamorphose Specimen of Genus Capra Into Royal Prince.

GLORIA GORDON WEAVING THE MAGIC SPELL.

The scene pictured here was recently enacted on the summit of The Broken, highest peaks of the Hartz Mountains, near Wernigerode, Germany, when a gathering of British and German psychic experts endeavored to metamorphose a billygoat into a prince with the aid of black magic spells. The party was led by Harry Price, a London, who was armed with an ancient witch's formula, borrowed from the archives of the National Laboratory of Psychological Research in London. One of the principals in the ensuing rites was Miss Gloria Gordon, blonde, wavy-haired beauty, whose function in the black art ceremonies was to supply the need for a maiden "pure of heart." When the stars, moon and spell-makers were all in their places, the weird rites began. The goat was anointed with a concoction of blood, honey and scrapings of church bells and placed within a magic circle of certain dimensions, where he was covered with a white cloth. Thereupon Magician Price intoned a series of incantations and, in the manner of a prize fight referee, counted ten over the horned one. According to the formula the goat should have been by this time metamorphosed into a prince. But when Miss Gordon removed the cloth on the given signal, no action of royalty made his appearance. Instead, there stood the identical, but much colder, specimen of the genus Capra. But although Price failed to make a prince of a goat, he did succeed in making goats of the crowd of sulkies who climbed a mountain to watch him strut his stuff.

"Last November I weighed 150 lbs. Today, (February 14, 1932) I am down to 129 lbs. and full of pep all day long—strong, healthy, Kruschen I have not had to use the laxative that was my habit."

—Theo. A. C. LaFollette, Providence, R. I.

What do you think of men who doubt you stay fat because you want to think nature made you that way. You're all wrong. Most fat men were made fat because of their inability to handle a knife and fork in a business like manner.

Be frank with yourself. Are you too timid to take a safe, harmless conditioner that not only takes off surplus fat but is so helpful that it makes you feel years younger?

To reduce safely take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets. Kruschen is sold by druggists the world over. A jar that costs but a trifle will last four weeks—but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first.—Adv.

What Lausanne Accord Means to Uncle Sam

Every Man, Woman and Child in United States May Be Saddled With $76.50 Debt as Result of European Reparations Agreement.

EUROPEAN STATESMEN AT LAUSANNE CONFERENCE

$63,822,000,000	$3,416,000,000	$12,500,000,000	$996,000,000	$7,400,000,000
ORIGINAL GERMAN WAR REPARATIONS	SCALED DOWN BY 1ST REPARATIONS COMMITTEE	1921 GERMAN OFFER REJECTED BY ALLIES.	SCALED DOWN UNDER YOUNG PLAN, 1928	FINAL SETTLEMENT JULY, 1932 IN LONG TERM BONDS

While European financial experts and statesmen are breaking out in eruptions of encomium over the harmonious conclusion of the Lausanne Reparations Conference, wherein the original reparations debt of $63,822,000,000 stipulated in 1920 to be paid by Germany to the Allies was finally whittled down to a mere $7,400,000,000, the layman in these United States is asking himself in a bewildered fashion "what does it mean to us?" The answer is approximately nine billion dollars. Though the U. S. did not take any part in the conference, the Allies have taken the stand that they cannot pay war debt installments due this country without corresponding reparations payments. And as they have agreed to cut the reparations to the stated sum it means that a corresponding cut will probably be passed on to the United States in the war debt matter. Of the eleven billion dollars due the U. S. by the Allies, only about a billion and a half has been paid, so if the Lausanne agreement is approved by the U. S. the remaining nine and a half billions may now be regarded as virtually uncollectable. This, on the basis of 1928 census figures (122,775,946 population) would plaster a debt of $76.50 on every man, woman and child in the U. S. Above is a diagram showing how the original German reparations debt has been shaved down by "easy" stages until it has finally shrunk to 99 per cent less than the originally stipulated amount. At top are the statesmen who participated in the Lausanne Conference. Left to right, they are: Baron van Neuhaus, German Minister of Foreign Affairs; Signor Mussolini of Italy; Chancellor von Brüning of Germany; Secretary MacDonald of Great Britain, and Premier Edward Herriot of France.

The Home Town Paper
The merchant's relations to his home town paper are supposed to be those of an advertiser. That is a narrow view. The home town paper is an institution. The merchant can no more escape its influence than anybody else in the community, whether he advertises in it or not.

Yet, as a consistent advertiser his relations with the local newspaper become definitely constructive. He becomes a part of this institution without which no community can express itself. What ever its merit or demerits, the home town paper is an expression of the community. Literally, it is the "Voice of the People" in a sense that cannot hold true for any other medium.

This institution keeps friends in touch with friends. To the best of its ability it answers Who, What, Where, How and Why? It brings the individual out of himself. It speaks the local language. It interprets community life. Week by week, or day by day, it tells the story of the town and country.

Most of us are so accustomed to the home town paper that we take it as a matter of course. If we think anything about it at all, we think of its deficiencies. These are present largely because it is run by fallible human beings. The wonder about the home town paper is that it contains so few mistakes, not so many.

To the merchant, especially, the home town paper is an opportunity. His business, too, is a local institution. Unless it finds some kind of expression in the home town paper, both the paper and the business have to an important extent failed to function. Each is affected somewhat by every successive failure in this respect.

It does not cost a great deal of money to advertise in the local paper. Most advertisers are over-judicious rather than extravagant. It is the continual message that counts most. Sporadic advertisement now and then are of doubtful value. Perhaps they are better than no advertising at all. Every advertisement placed by a business house should blend into every other advertisement it places. The merchant should think in terms of a campaign rather than in terms of the single insertion.

Vast progress has been made in advertising within recent years. Outstanding examples of it are to be found in the national field. Locally, however, advertising has much room for development. Aside from one or two of the stores, the average merchant in the average small town gives too little study to the power of advertising.

But conditions are changing. More and more merchants are coming to realize that they are losing money and prestige when they are not to be found in the advertising columns of the home town paper. This is one of the healthiest signs in the field of retail merchandising.

What of the Future
WHAT are you going to do about it?
The development of your home city, so that it may take the position which it is entitled to strictly up to you.

A vein of gold or a gusher of oil attracts crowds quickly. The word goes as the wind for there will always be the throng whose ears are attuned to alluring news of that character. To get rich quick is their dream and goal. A rumormongers are sufficient to send them on what they know is probably a fool's chase.

The most optimistic booster here does not claim that fortune may be made without effort. There is no desire among the people for the development of Wallingford.

There are, however, a large number of industries needed, legitimate enterprises from which the returns on the investment will prove highly remunerative. Outside investors have secured some of the attractive opportunities. They have their eye on the city and will come here to invest. Of course, we want them and will welcome the outside capital but why wait for them if we do not accept the opportunities ourselves?

There is something more to be done for your city. Something which is more important right now than the investment of dollars and cents and that is the awakening of a great Circleville spirit. The spirit which will prompt and impel us to let the world know: Carry the message to those who seek new homes and fields in which to work. The message needs no exaggeration but it needs to be delivered.

Basic conditions are essentially sound and with the strengthened confidence in a conditions forward movement. There is opportunity for a great future of business activities in the coming months. With this removal we are entitled to our full share, nothing less.

EMBERS OF LOVE

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS
Lily Lou Lansing, young and pretty telephone operator, gives up her opportunity for an operative career to marry wealthy Ken Sargent. Ken's mother wanted him to marry the socially prominent Peggy Sage and threatens to have the marriage annulled. Ken and Lily Lou are stranded, but she assures him she will stick by him regardless of what happens. Ken loses his position with his father but secures a better one. The young couple take a small apartment and are ideally happy. Then, one night, Lily Lou awakens to hear Ken sobbing.

CHAPTER TWENTY
She had brought in the morning paper, and laid it at Ken's place. Usually he took a glance at the front page, another at the sports section, then pushed it aside. Today he propped it up in front of him, read while he ate.

There was something husbandly and settled about it. From her place across the table Lily Lou could just see the top of his head. His brown hair, still damp from his shower. She bit her lip, to keep from crying out. Fear and anguish gnawed at her heart. But the paper comforted her. . . he must feel settled and satisfied if he could eat his breakfast and read that way. . . sort as if the honeymoon were over maybe, but settling down. . . the loving husband. . .

He looked up suddenly. "You're awfully pensive this morning." "I thought you were reading." "He struck the paper aside. "No, I wasn't reading." "Another cup of coffee?" she asked hastily.

He glanced at his watch. "Sorry, have to be on my way."

She went with him to the door, accepted his rather absent-minded kiss. After he was gone she practiced for an hour or two. . . scales, breathing exercises. . . felt better. What a super-sensitive idiot she was turning out to be! Next thing, if she didn't look out, she'd develop nerves like May, or a weak back, like Bess, and have to take pills. She laughed a little at that. Decided to go down town and do a little shopping. She wanted some black darning cotton, for Ken's socks, and a new lipstick.

At the perfume counter in a drug store on Grand avenue she walked right into Peggy Sage. No time to back out, to hastily look the other way. Peggy saw her, seemed to shrink back, too. Then with a nervous little laugh she held out both hands. "The bride! To think of meeting you here! My dear, I'm so glad to see you. Do have lunch with me. I'm alone, and starving."

"Lily Lou gulped. "I'd just love to, but—"

She never finished the halting excuse. Peggy Sage hooked a small but determined arm through hers. Before she knew just how it happened they were seated at a table in one of the Russian tea rooms, just off the avenue.

"The Russian soup, with the sour cream," the waitress' pretty Slavonic face was close to Lily Lou's. She must have asked twice.

"Yes, please," Lily Lou murmured hastily, though she hated sour cream, and didn't even want soup.

The orchestra dinned happily, just back of them. Smoke rose in faint blue spirals from every table. Noisy dressed women, impatient to noise and crowding, knocked elbows with each other. Chatted in low, well-bred tones.

Lily Lou had lit a cigarette, Peggy said indifferently.

"These isn't much to tell," said Mary Faith. "We . . . we made up our minds one day and were married the next. . ."

She was smiling across the table. "Tell me all about it," she invited.

"You mean about our marriage?" There isn't much to tell. We . . . we made up our minds one day and were married the next and that's about all. . ."

"Most romantic thing I ever heard in my life," Peggy exclaimed, nibbling sweet butter on rye bread, nibbling as she talked. "I mean it was the most exciting thing. Why, I was never so surprised. Not at anything. . . Why don't you try this funny conceit? It's good really. . . And I said to Ken, 'I certainly do wish you luck, boy!' and I do, my dear, and if there's anything I can do. . ."

"That's awfully sweet of you," Lily Lou put in, stiffly.

She made a pretense of eating her salad. She felt awkward, and at a disadvantage. What rotten luck to bump into Peggy Sage, of all people. . . And what a ninny to let herself be dragged off to lunch this way. Peggy just invited her to pump her about things. . . well, she wouldn't find out much. . . "Are you going somewhere else, aiting this summer?" she asked, and then settled back, pleased with herself because Peggy fell into the trap and rattled on about Maine, and somebody's camp. Lily Lou almost enjoyed her lunch. She admired the bright dishes, the colorful carvings, the strange Russian frescoes in the room. She studied Peggy's printed dress, decided she wasn't so terribly pretty after all. . . her nose was really too large, and her eyes were too sharp. . .

"No, let me!" Peggy's little hand closed over the check the waitress had left on the table with the dessert.

Lily Lou held her corner of it firmly. She knew it was silly, but she didn't want Peggy to pay for their lunch. She wanted to pay for herself. "Please," she begged. "Let me have it—"

The eagerness must have showed in her face. "Just as you like," Peggy said indifferently.

Would You Throw Away Your Pet Easy Chair to Get Rid of Asthma?

Injection Tests Show That Dust From Certain Objects May Cause Attacks of This Distressing Malady, Which Seems Also to Have Some Strange Relation to Eczema.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

RECENTLY I wrote about eczema and told of the frequent occurrence of this annoying condition in children. Today I want to tell you about asthma in young children and its relationship to eczema.

Asthma commonly develops in children who have had eczema in infancy, and some authorities believe that most children who have eczema will at some future time develop an asthmatic complaint.

The cause of eczema has never been definitely determined. It is believed that many cases in childhood are due to certain foods taken by the infant or the mother. It has been found that in some way these same foods may be the cause of asthma.

Asthma is believed to be caused by sensitivity to certain proteins in the food, in the air, or in the clothing or furnishings of the home. The disease is most commonly caused by foods or inhaled dusts, such as animal dandruff, feather dust, plant dust and pollens.

Skin tests are used to determine what substance causes the attacks. Injections of various substances are made under the skin or by scratching the skin and the reaction determines whether the individual is susceptible to the substance injected. Such tests are made with foods included in the daily diet, also samples of dust and other substances found in the house.

If the offending substance is food, it should be taken from the diet. If it is dust from certain household furnishings, they should be discarded. If it is due to pollens, treatment may be given in the form of special vaccines, which should be injected at periodic intervals until the sensitivity is overcome.

In all cases of asthma, a complete physical examination by a physician is necessary before successful treatment and relief can be expected. All abnormalities should be corrected wherever possible. The diet and manner of living must be carefully investigated. If the child is undernourished, attention should be given to building up his resistance. Cod liver oil should be given twice a day and the diet should contain simple but nourishing foods.

I am often asked whether a change of climate is of any benefit. While change to a different climate may be beneficial, it does not help all cases of asthma, and in addition it is expensive and may subject the child to many unnecessary risks. There are many medicines that give relief during acute attacks, but they should only be administered under the personal supervision of a physician.

GOLD MINERS BUSY
SEWARD, Alaska. The current season marks the return of more than 200 men to work in the placer diggings at Dawson, on the Yukon. Four big Canadian dredges with full crews have begun operations on a large scale. With hundreds of millions of dollars taken out of the gold-bearing gravels of the Dawson district in past years, the present season portends a banner year of gold production.

WOMAN SCALPED
OSAGE, Ia.—Mrs. R. L. Whitely was partially scalped recently when her hair— it wasn't bobbed—caught in the wringer of an electric washbasin. Before her husband could aid her a portion of the scalp was pulled loose.

ROVE LOSES SECOND GAME

Indians Hop On Ace Two Straight Days, Winning Fourth In Row.

NEW YORK, July 14.—"Lefty" Grove, great of the greats, threw himself down on the Athletics' turf today and had a good cry.

Poor Lefty just discovered what he meant by "feet of clay," the way of all flesh, and the old man isn't what she used to be.

And those howling Cleveland Indians put on fresh war paint as they skidded into second place in the American league, displacing the blue-blooded A's nine and one-half games behind the league leaders, the New York Yankees.

The Indians beat the Athletics for the fourth straight, and gave Grove his second humiliation in a week when Cissell singled in the 10th to drive in two runs. The score was 7 to 5. Hildebrandt went the route for Cleveland.

SIMMONS JEALOUS

Al Simmons, the A's outfielder, who is said to be so jealous of the baton of his pal, Jimmy Fox, that plenty of discord has struck the Mackraon, slammed 7 two homers for a seasonal total of 21. He is still 13 homers behind Fox.

Babe Ruth returned from the land of the missing and rung the bell for homer No. 25, adding George Pappas in the Yankee's humbling, of the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3. Frank Crosetti, the coast beauty, frunk a four-strike.

With both the Wagon, and Traynor on the injured list, Pittsburgh fell twice before the Boston Braves, 5 to 1 and 10 to 5. Brandt and Zachary were the hurling heroes.

There was drama when ancient-days Jack Quinn, of Brooklyn, put the bee on Billy Herman, retiring him in the ninth with the tying run on third to give the Dodgers a 5 to 4 celebration over the Chicago Cubs.

Four errors by the White Sox plus 16 hits by the Senators spelled it 15 to 4 in favor of Washington.

With Whitney doing most of the hitting, the Phillies settled the Cincy Reds more firmly in the cellar, 3 to 2.

Paul Derringer, supposed to be ailing, proved too healthy for the New York Giants, who were limited to eight anishes. Walker was soft, the Cardinals getting four runs in the first inning and finally rolling off the game, 6 to 2.

Whitehill, Detroit hurler, was wild and finally was sent to the porcelain, giving Boston an 8 to 1 success.

Victor Congratulated

Here is H. Ellsworth Vines (right), American tennis star, shown as he received the congratulations of H. W. (Bunny) Austin, British ace, after Vines had defeated the latter in the finals for the men's singles championship at Wimbledon, Eng. The victories of Vines and Helen Wills Moody place the U. S. on top of the tennis world once more.

TRANSUE BEST

PORTAGE COUNTRY CLUB, AKRON, July 14.—With the field cut to 32 after the qualifying rounds, competition began in earnest at Portage's deceptive course today for honors in the 29th annual Ohio State amateur golf tournament.

Favored in the match play which is to be staged today and tomorrow was Oliver Transue, Canton's son of old Eli, who won the medal for the opening rounds with a brilliant 144, outpointing his Ohio State University opponent, Johnny Florio, Columbus, by a single stroke.

Qualifiers for the tournament were forced to score 155 or lower to make the grade. Three finished at 155, forcing a play-off for the 32nd position before the match play began this morning.

In third place of the qualifying lies was Don McCallister, Toledo, who finished in 146. Other leaders were Fred Hoffelder, Cleveland, 147; Harold Weber, Toledo, 148; E. G. Livesay, Columbus, 149; George Berry, Newark, 149; and Raleigh Lee, Columbus, 149.

Scoring sub-par 70's to share a tie for the first 18 holes, Transue and Florio continued the battle in yesterday's test on even terms until the 18th hole when the leadership was determined.

MORE STORMS PRISON
NAPLES, Italy.—Thousands of men, women and children, many of them from towns along the Bay of Naples, crowded outside the prison of Poggio Reale, demanding release of 500 of the prisoners and threatening to break in unless they had news. It took the police a long time to persuade them that rumors spread in Naples that 500 prisoners had died of food poisoning were not true.

The most effective examples of auto-suggestion are found in newspaper advertisements.

The company plans to stay about ten months in Alaska.

Instead of bothering with trick guarantees, phony inducements and special deals, smart car owners ask themselves:

Why buy any SECOND-CHOICE tire when FIRST-CHOICE costs no more?

Right now you car-owners are "sitting pretty" . . . You can buy more safe, comfortable, trouble-free mileage for a dollar than in any previous summer . . . You don't have to put up with second-choice tires for reasons of economy, because first-choice tires cost you no more! . . . Goodyear Tires—the kind we sell—are first-choice here, throughout the state, throughout the nation, by more than 2 to 1! . . . They outsell all others not because of any trick guarantees, or phony inducements, or special deals, but simply because they give people the biggest money's worth, and people know it! Don't be argued out of the benefits to be had from the leading tires and our service.

Plans Three Stop Hop 'Round World

Not satisfied with the fame won by his fight from Maine to Spain and thence to Rome, Roger Q. Williams will hop off from New York soon in an attempt to circle the world with only three stops for refueling. Williams, shown above with his Bellanca plane, the "Roma," will take two co-pilots and two passengers with him. The "Roma" is the same ship in which he and Capt. Yancey made the trans-Atlantic crossing in 1929. Williams hopes to beat the world circling record held by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty despite the fact that the "Roma" is considerably slower than the Lockheed "Winnie May" used by the record holders.

'DEATH MARCH'

Capitol and city police were on duty the entire night, to carry out the instructions of the House and Senate leaders. Scores of the ragged men were forced to discard their shoes during the long march through the night, and this morning were hobbling in the line of march on blistered and bare feet. "The March of Death," began last night about 9:00 p. m., after the weekly band concert by the U. S. Marine band. The eviction order of Curtis and Garner had been given to the marchers before the concert, but their leaders informed Chief of Police Pelham Glassford, the men would comply with the letter of the law, but would use the walks and drives for their demonstration.

TROUBLE FEARED

Trouble was feared for a time at the beginning of the march, when the crowd of 3,000 residents attending the concert milled about as the veterans began their picketing. Police had no trouble with the veterans, but were stumped by the crowd of sightseers which seemed mainly interested in a close up view of the westerners who carry their belongings in the approved "blanket stiff" method of the Pacific coast lumber camps.

laws—both congressional and state.

Declaration was made that if the resolutions (platform) committee rejects the demand of the Hamilton-co delegates and stands pat on the national convention plank, a minority report, favoring the ultra-wet delegates' contention, will be presented by some members of the committee, thus precipitating a bitter contest on the floor of the convention hall.

Hurley's address is designed to open the campaign in the middle west in behalf of the present national administration. It will answer the acceptance speech made by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, Democratic presidential nominee, at his party's national convention, held recently at Chicago.

The G. O. P. state convention will open at 4 p. m. Senator Fess, temporary chairman, will speak at the initial session. Hurley, Ingalls and Bettman will talk at the night session, starting at 8 p. m. The platform will be adopted and electoral candidates nominated at the final session, beginning at 10 a. m. Friday. All sessions will be held in the Columbus auditorium.

SCHORR FAVORED

A state campaign manager was scheduled to be chosen at a meeting of the Republican state central committee this afternoon, prior to the opening of the convention. Indications were that Attorney Ed F. Schorr, Columbus, chairman of the committee, would be selected to manage the G. O. P. campaign in Ohio this year.

A half-hour concert by The Franklin Post American Legion band of Columbus, will immediately precede the opening of the convention.

The convention will be called to order by Schorr. Election of temporary officers, including Senator Fess as chairman, will be followed by an address by the temporary chairman. Resolutions then will be adopted providing for the selection of standing committees credentials; rules and order of business; resolutions (platform), and presidential electors.

Following the afternoon session, delegates from each congressional district will caucus in the downtown hotels for the purpose of selecting their members of the standing committees, and choosing one person from each one of the 22 congressional districts for presidential elector.

It will be the duty of the committee on presidential electors to recommend four other persons for nomination as presidential electors in addition to the 22 selected at the congressional district caucuses.

After tonight's session, the standing committees will hold separate meetings in the hotels and submit their reports at the Friday session.

MOTHER GUILTY OF CONTRIBUTING

Mrs. Linnie Carpenter, aged 35, wife of Richard Carpenter of Long-alley, was found guilty of contributing to the dependency of her minor children by Judge E. A. Brown in probate court Thursday and sentence was withheld until a later date.

The complaint was filed by Officer Will McCrady who with Sheriff Charles Radcliff found Mrs. Carpenter intoxicated at her home Sunday afternoon. She is the mother of seven children.

Due to the fact that she has a three-month-old baby, Judge Brown extended mercy and ordered Mrs. Carpenter to refrain from such conduct as she exhibited Sunday.

Both Mrs. Carpenter and her husband were in probate court in December, 1931, on delinquency charges.

Judge Brown suggested that the couple move out of the neighborhood of Long alley.
